THE FIREFLIES' WEDDING

By Catalie Mendes.

One evening as I was returning from the village I noticed in the light of a moonbeam a child sleeping against a tree in the road-way alongside of a miniature cathedral in plaster. I have often wondered who buys these hideous productions of ecclesiastical architecture, with such square, ungraceful outlines, surmounted by a tall steeple and illuminated with a candle end placed on the altar. A sensation of pity seized me when I gazed upon the poor little merchant, who must have spent the entire evening trying to sell his church, and, finding no purchaser, had fallen asleep to dream, perhaps, of the beating which awaited him at home.

Ragged, dusty and tanned, he was as picturesque as he was dirty. I awakened the lad, gave him some money and, to avoid the semblance of almsgiving, I accepted the plaster cathedral.

It bothered me a good deal as I carried it off under my arm. I walked faster, being anxious to relieve myself of the burden, which I intended to leave in a corner of the garden where it would serve as a scarecrow for the sparrows which were already beginning to steal my cherries.

I must have looked like one of those personages you see in religious paintings bearing the resemblance in miniature of the chapel which they have dedicated to St. Timoleon or St. Ildebert in expiation of their sins.

Midnight sounded; I was still awake in my bed, with eyes half closed. I felt it was an insomnia without fear, vague and delicious, refreshed by the soft moonlight entering through the wide open window close by, which also bathed the winding paths of the garden below, the beds of flowers and the velvet grass in the pale enchantment of fairyland.

Perfectly happy in my semiconscious state, without the sensation of existence, yet enraptured with the joy of living, I was rather a thing ecstatic than a man. And the still silence, the absolute calm, so suggestive of solitary wastes, drowsy nooks, of leaves unstirred by any breeze, were deepened by the almost arrested throbbings of my heart, by the dispersion in a dream-peace of all my dead desires.

Suddenly a sight startled me. One might have called it the contact of a sensible of some delicate object with a feebly resisting surface. The sound was rhythmic, too, at equal intervals, suggesting the idea of a bell infinitely distant among the clouds.

The noise continued hardly audible, yet seeming to gently impel me. I arose and looked out of the window.

Fancy my surprise! The cathedral, which on entering I had placed near the door in a narrow path, like a church at the end of an avenue—the cathedral, whose candle end inside had long been extinguished—now radiated illumination through all its tiny red windows, and as I leaned forward to examine more closely I perceived that the inclination of an adjacent woodbine caused the steeple to be capped by an oscillating bellflower in which a bee performed the office of clapper or ringer. What was going on, then, in my garden beneath the mystic light of the moon?

I softly stepped over the window sill and knelt in the shade of an acacia. In the wall of the little church, just behind the choir, was a crevice, through which I now peeped. More than a hundred fireflies, attached either to the shafts of the columns or perched before the altar in lieu of candles, filled the edifice with light, and in the top of the steeple the industrious bee tolled his bell in the woodbine, as if calling the devout to some important ceremony.

A constantly increasing and innumerable throng of insects was entering the portals. Crickets and grasshoppers from the fields jostled each other eagerly in the van; a ladybug, to avoid being pushed in the crowd, was posted on the wing of a dragon fly; tiny insects vested in black and white, presumably the clergy, followed a gorgeous cochineal in purple. The whole seemed a strange confusion of murmurings from countless creeping things of every color.

When a length the entire company had taken their places in proper order, a large fly flew up to the organ loft and presently a humming sort of music, joyous, yet religious, fairly filled the little basilica so brightly illuminated by the fireflies.

A ceremony, indeed, of some sort was on the point of commencing. When I beheld two minute creatures proceed toward the choir, the one with confident air beating its wings victoriously, the other hesitating and timid, I supposed there was a wedding about.

And of this I was sure when I saw at the high altar a magnificent beetle with green and gold chasuble, assisted by two lesser bugs as acolytes, approach the bridal party with gesture seemingly of benediction.

My eyes glued the crevice; I lost not a single detail of the august ceremony. With eager curiosity I watched the crowd as it gradually dispersed, while the fireflies extinguished their lights one by one. Then noiselessly I turned to trace on the moonlit path the course of the newly wedded couple after extricating themselves from the tumultuous throng.

Where would they go? Would they fly away for their honeymoon toward some distant nuptial flower, under a warmer azure, beneath more ardent stars? Or would they content themselves with the first convenient corolla invitingly open under the discreet caution of a leaf?

"Wherever fancy leads you, oh, gentle bride and bridegroom, may the god of insects ephemeral and flowers quickly fading to you be kind! May you have much happiness in the few hours of your brief springtime!"

"Never may the sabot of a peasant or the slipper of a woman who perchance seeks repose under a tree cause you fear as you wing your flight so close one to the other, over moss clad bank, from bush to bush! May the dewdrops that you sip together be ever perfumed to your taste! May the chalice proffered never refuse an odoriferous lodging! And if you should fall into the clutches of some cruel child may it be the same little hand that seizes you both so that you may suffer and die together!"

While I was breathing these heartfelt wishes for their happiness the two insects had not flown away; they had climbed up the length of a Bengal rose bush, the topmost rose of which surmounted the ledge of my window, and I saw them disappear inside the flower, whose petals, half gone, closed softly over the tender pair.

Not for one instant would I have thought of returning to my room by the window as I had left—a rustling of the leaves would have disturbed the rapt lovers in their first intimacy. I started, therefore, toward the door, where I happened to observe on the stone ledge another bug, which I had not perceived before and who without doubt had followed the others.

What was its business here? Why had it come? Was it a relative of the bride or—who knows—a rival of the bridegroom?

Many a man has suffered under the windows of a nuptial chamber, and among insects, perhaps, as with us, it is the misfortune of some that becomes the happiness of others.

The poor little creature remained motionless, close by the rosebush. I touched it with the end of my finger very gently. It stirred not. Alas! I knew, then, that it was dead.—Translated From the French For Commercial Advertiser.

"What's In a Name?"
The southern part of New Zealand has been colonized in the main by Scots and their descendants, and as a result of Caledonian clannishness, a man without a Scotch sounding name has no chance of getting a contract from the municipal councils there.

At a meeting of one of these bodies it was announced from the chair that Sandy McPherson was the successful seeker of a contract, and he was requested to come forward and enter into the necessary bonds for its due fulfillment.

In response to the invitation an almond eyed, pig tailed, bland and smiling heathen Chinese rose from the rear of the hall and stood before the speechless councilors with the brief exclamation:

"Mc Sandy McPherson!"

After a few moments of silent agony the meeting adjourned in confusion.

How to Skin an Eel.
When hooked, an eel will tie a line into many thousand intricate knots without any apparent difficulty. He is slippery and should be seized near the middle, with the middle finger over, the rest under his body. In this position he can only wind himself around your wrist and cover your sleeve with slime. Said slime, if dried, is nearly as adhesive as the skin.

If skinned before his demise, he is as lively as ever, and half cooked four inch pieces will wriggle freely.

To remove the eel's outer garment grasp firmly with a mittened hand, cut through the back of the neck till the spinal column is broken, then through to the skin in front, seize the exposed meat with a bit of paper to prevent slipping and steadily pull the hide toward the tail, turning it wrong side out.

ALWAYS FEEL YOUNG.

People Grow Old by Thinking Themselves to Be Old.

People grow old by thinking themselves old. When they reach the age of forty, fifty or sixty, they imagine that they look like others of the same age and that they soon will be useless, unfit for work and unable to perform their wonted duties. As surely as they think this it will come true, for thought is creative. How many of us can say with Job, "The thing which I greatly feared is come upon me?"

The time will come when children will not be allowed to celebrate their birthday; when they will know that by thinking themselves young they will remain young and that they will cease to grow old when they cease to believe in old age. The body is built up of beliefs, and our convictions are stamped upon every fiber of our beings. What we believe, what we think, that we are. So people who remain young in spirit never grow old.

Not one of a hundred students, of whom the writer was one, under Oliver Wendell Holmes at Harvard ever thought of him as an old man, although he had then passed his eightieth birthday. His spirit was so young, and he was so buoyant, so fresh and full of life, that we always thought of him as one of ourselves. His vivacity and joyousness were contagious. You could not be in his presence five minutes without feeling brighter and better for it. The genial doctor never practiced medicine, yet he did more to relieve human suffering than many practicing physicians. His presence was a tonic. It was a perpetual delight to be near him.—Success.

Greyhound Fastest Quadruped.

A correspondent says that as the result of experiments he has made under careful timing he finds that the greyhound is the fastest of all four footed animals. When going at full gallop, it can cover twenty yards a second, or about a mile in a minute and twenty-eight seconds, a speed that comes very near that of a carrier pigeon. There are few thoroughbred horses that can exceed nineteen yards a second. Greyhounds have been known to do better than that by four yards. Foxhounds have a record of four miles in six and a half minutes, or nearly eighteen yards a second. This speed is to some extent an inherited gift, as wolves can run at the rate of a mile in three minutes. Siberian dogs can travel forty-five miles on ice in five hours.

Some Odd Looking English Hats.

Stubs in his "Anatomy of Abuses" describes a pleasing variety of new fashioned headgear—hats perking up like the spear or shaft of a temple, hats flat and broad on the crown, like the battlements of a house, and round crowns with bands of every color. This variety of shape consorted with an equal variety of material—silk, velvet, taffeta, sarsenet, wool and a fine hair, which they call beaver, fetched from "beyond the seas." Whoso had not hat of velvet or hat of taffeta was held of no account among the gilded youth of the time, and so common a thing was this ostentation in the matter of head covering that "every serving man, countryman or other, even all indifferently, did wear of these hats."—All the Year Round.

Do You Want to Know What You Swallow?

There is a growing sentiment in this country in favor of MEDICINES OF KNOWN COMPOSITION. It is but natural that one should have some interest in the composition of that which he or she is expected to swallow, whether it be food, drink or medicine.

Recognizing this growing disposition on the part of the public, and satisfied that the fullest publicity can only add to the well-earned reputation of his medicine, Dr. R. E. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., has taken time by the forelock, as it were, and is publishing broadcast a list of all the ingredients entering into his leading medicines, the "Golden Medical Discovery," the popular liver invigorator, stomach tonic, blood purifier and heart regulator; also of his "Favorite Prescription" for weak, over-worked, broken-down, nervous and invalid women.

This bold and outspoken movement on the part of Dr. Pierce, has, by showing exactly what his well-known medicines are composed of, completely disarmed all harping critics who have heretofore unjustly attacked them. A little pamphlet has been compiled, from the standard medical authorities of all the several schools of practice, showing the strongest endorsements by leading medical writers of the several ingredients which enter into Dr. Pierce's medicines. A copy of this little book is mailed free to any one desiring to learn more concerning the valuable, native, medicinal plants which enter into the composition of Dr. Pierce's medicines. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are tiny, sugar-coated anti-bilious granules. They regulate and invigorate Stomach, Liver and Bowels. Do not "cost" you "a hill o' beans," but cure constipation. One or two each day for a laxative and regulator, three or four for an active cathartic. Once tried always a favorite. $50,000 GIVEN AWAY, in copies of Medical Advertiser, a book that sold for a cent of 500,000 copies a few years ago, at $1.50 per copy. Last year we gave away $50,000 worth of these invaluable books. This year we shall give away $50,000 worth of them. Will you share in this benefit? If so, send only 3 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only for book to $50,000 worth of them. Address Dr. R. E. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

The Most Cherished Ideal.

PERHAPS one of the most cherished and hoped for ideals in the world is a bloodless age where wars will cease to be a necessity with nations and peace may be secured and established not through fighting force or capability but through keen mental arrangement and the exercising of the calm judgement of a tribunal. Of all ideals this is the one most to be desired and less likely to undergo a revolution. War is a collective expression of primitive instinct—the instinct to exist by force. War will never cease to be until all nations of the earth achieve a high and equal type of civilization. In dealing with barbarians we must combat them with their own medicine as can be seen from recent reports from China, where the American policy of arbitration and treaty is regarded as a sign of weakness. We can only impress such people in proportion to the fight we show, only hold them in subjection and win their respect by force of arms. There may be no wars precipitated in some instances, but peace is very often secured by the gleam of arms in the back ground. All men can be fighting units but all could not be thinking units, therefore patriotism is really the result of the ability of men to meet on the common ground of battle and to unite on a common cause. If all could not participate, (which would be impossible in a mental conference,) men would not think a victory half won nor a cause worth their while. You would then have little patriotism.

War is a hideous thing but out of it cometh the peace that we enjoy to-day and we must endure and acknowledge it as a potent factor until the dawn of the greatest revolution the world has known and the coming of universal peace and the predominance of mental over physical prowess. Mental power is being shown to be superior to physical daily and its utilization is revealing astounding facts. Who knows what mental science will achieve?

WHEN we read of dozens of people standing or sitting in line all night to purchase seats for the Grand Opera, we stop and wonder why they will take such strenuous means to buy tickets for the musical festival. Is it love of music? If so it is a glorious thing. The soul of the artist will endure much for the beloved art. Is it love of fashion? If so it is hollow and foolish mockery. Whatever the cause the conditions prevail and enriches the coffers of the wise managers. People will work for amusement as well as existence and will suffer more willingly and cheerfully for the former. If those who sit up all night in the cold for opera tickets were forced to sit up because of work, they would consider it a terrible hardship but there is something of a self-satisfying and delicious martyrdom about the musical crank and the fashionable freak.

THE Educational Convention is a great thing for this Coast because it will bring together people in California whose opinions will carry weight when they return to the East with reports of conditions in this part of the West. Other organizations may come here and leave more money but the teachers will ultimately do us more good because each one represents a community which will be told of California and its attractions. None of those who attend the convention may ever buy a foot of land in this State but their visit will probably influence and bring about the sale of hundreds of acres. Just so with our effort to get the State Farm. The State did not take the property but Sonoma Valley has gained valuable advertising through the effort of our people to secure it. This is compensation enough.

THE municipal election is a thing of the past and as the darkey says "it is all over but the shouting." The vote shows that the men elected are the choice of the people of this municipality and the new trustees will undoubtedly live up to the principles of the platform on which they were elected. A community is nothing more or less than the majority of its citizens wish it to be. May Sonoma forge ahead under the new regime.

The heavy winds have dried out the roads so that now there is considerable dust. The city trustees should get the sprinkling cart to work.

The man who had a rabbits eye grafted in place of his own will be right in it with the "bunny hug."

DOINGS IN THE SUPERIOR COURT.

FIFTY CENTS

IN some conditions the gain from the use of Scott's Emulsion is very rapid. For this reason we put up a fifty-cent size, which is enough for an ordinary cough or cold or useful as a trial for babies and children. In other conditions the gain is slower—health cannot be built up in a day. In such cases Scott's Emulsion must be taken as nourishment; a food rather than a medicine. It's a food for tired and weak digestions.

Cost is not Much
2 Pounds Feeds
a Hen a Month.

Coulson's Mash Egg Food don't cost much; a 90-pound sack will make a meal for 1250 hens. A little more than 2 pounds will feed a hen for a month, and if a hen lays three eggs a month, it pays for the feed. There are some hens that are fed on Coulson's Feed, that lay 28 and 24 eggs a month.

Human Blood Marks.

A tale of horror was told by marks of human blood in the home of J. W. Williams, a well known merchant of Eac. Ky. He writes: "Twenty years ago I had severe hemorrhages of the lungs, and was near death when I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery. It completely cured me and I have remained well ever since." It cures Hemorrhages, Chronic Coughs, Settled Colds and Bronchitis, and is the only known cure for Weak Lungs. Every bottle guaranteed by L. S. Simmons Druggist, 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Daily Chronicle and the Index-Tribune only $9 a year for both papers.

Captain Hauto, the well known master of the good schooner "Four Sisters" had trouble with his brother-in-law in San Francisco the other night and as a result was arrested and charged with attempting to take his life.

It seems that Captain Hauto went down from here to get an explanation as to how a relative of Mrs. Hauto's had been sent to the asylum and all his money confiscated. He demanded the explanation from his brother-in-law but the latter became infuriated at Hauto and was about to descend on him with a hatchet when the Captain drew his revolver and fired several shots. The police heard the fracas and running to the house where the quarrel was being enacted, broke in the door and arrested Hauto. He was released on bail and his case came up before Judge Shortall on Wednesday.

It is rumored that Contractor MacQuiddy will also sell and that he has already been made an offer by outside contractors.

BEAUTIFUL GIRL AN EASTER BRIDE.

Miss Monahan will Wed Jas. Healey on Wednesday at High Noon.

At the pretty little church of St. Mary's which nestles in the foothills of Glen Ellen Miss Mary Monahan will be wed to James Healey on Wednesday next at high noon. Miss Monahan will make a beautiful Easter bride and no setting could be more romantic than Glen Ellen decked as it is now in all the regal and floral loveliness of Spring. The church altar will be banked with lilies of the valley and the ceremony will be performed by the parish priest. Miss Monahan has a most beautiful wedding dress and trousseau. Mr. Healey is a fine looking fellow and holds a good position with the California Northwestern Railroad. A wedding breakfast at the Merwyn Hotel will follow the ceremony after which the young couple will leave for Los Angeles and New Mexico where the wedding trip will be spent.

School Trustees Elected.

There was quite a lively contest for School Trustee Friday afternoon of last week. The candidates in Sonoma were the present incumbent, Frank Campbell and Fred Batto. St. Francis Church

The Easter devotions in St. Francis Church will be as follows: First Mass will be at 8 o'clock a. m. at which the faithful may receive the Holy Communion. Second mass at 11 o'clock a. m. will be a High Mass. The sermon will treat of the feast of the day and will be preached by Father F. McNaboe. The choir will be composed of Miss M. Valente, Miss A. Perazzo, Miss Maffei, Miss Gies, Mrs. Haraszthy and Mr. Cunningham under the able leadership of Mrs. Emparan. Organist, Miss Maisy Gough. After High Mass Benediction of the most holy sacrament will be given. There will be no devotions in the evening. At St. Mary's Church, Glen Ellen, mass will be at 9 o'clock a. m. and the faithful may receive the most holy Sacrament there.

From the first allegations of Bocca's complaint were vigorously denied by Mr. Quen. The witnesses for the plaintiff were Vary Tarranto and Charles E. Mueller. Some documentary evidence was also introduced and then the plaintiff rested. Mr. Quen was called as a witness for his side and then attorney Pistolesi dismissed the suit. One of the reasons was a wrong description of the land.

Easter Services in the Churches.

Appropriate Easter services will be held to-morrow at the local churches which have been handsomely decorated for the occasion. There will be special music by the choirs and sermons on the "Resurrection."

At the Congregational Church there will be a Processional sung by little girls of the Sunday school class in which they will carry flowers up the aisle of the church to the pulpit where a cross will be decorated. Besides this there will be a special anthem and several duets.

At St. Francis Catholic church, an augmented choir will sing one of the celebrated masses under the direction of Mrs. Lulu Emparan.

The Methodist church will also have appropriate music and the Rev. Mr. Rowe will deliver an Easter sermon.

ARE WED AND SPRING BLOSSOMS.

Miss Perle Landgrebe and James Rubke Have Pretty Wedding at City Hotel.

Miss Perle Landgrebe, the pretty and dainty daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Landgrebe of Glen Ellen, was married on Saturday last to James Rubke, a popular young brakeman on the California Northwestern Railroad. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Rowe at the City Hotel in the presence of many relatives and a few intimate friends. The parlors had been transformed into a beautiful bower of Spring blossoms and under a floral bell the young couple plighted their troth.

The bride wore a becoming traveling suit and was attended by a friend from San Francisco while Adolph Rubke was best man. After the ceremony, the guests repaired to the dining room where Mr. and Mrs. O'Rourke, the proprietors of the hotel and old friends of the bride and groom served a fine wedding feast. The tables were decorated in maiden-hair fern and white carnations, while the room itself was banked high with ferns and bridal wreath. After the toasts and well wishing, Mr. and Mrs. Rubke departed for the honeymoon on the afternoon train amid a shower of rice and plenty of old shoes.

They will reside in Glen Ellen.

Six days will be spent in the City of Mexico and side trips will be made to Cuernavaca, Guadalupe, Guanajuato, Agua Calientes Chihuahua and a number of places of interest.

A total of 78 editors and their wives will comprise the editorial party. H. H. Granice is in the party and he expects to see General Frisbie and P. Pinelli while visiting the southern republic.

Case Dismissed By Attorney of Bocca.

The suit brought by F. Bocca against F. Quen for alleged unlawful detainer of plaintiff's ranch near Glen Ellen, which had been in the court calendar for a long time, came to trial on Wednesday morning before Superior Judge Seawell in Department 1 of the Superior Court. It also came to a very abrupt termination in the afternoon, when attorney L. C. Pistolesi, representing the plaintiff, dismissed the suit without prejudice.

From the first allegations of Bocca's complaint were vigorously denied by Mr. Quen. The witnesses for the plaintiff were Vary Tarranto and Charles E. Mueller. Some documentary evidence was also introduced and then the plaintiff rested. Mr. Quen was called as a witness for his side and then attorney Pistolesi dismissed the suit. One of the reasons was a wrong description of the land.

Royal Baking Powder Absolutely Pure

Made from Pure Grape Cream of Tartar

In baking powder Royal is the standard, the powder of highest reputation; found by the United States Government tests of greatest strength and purity.

It renders the food more healthful and palatable and is most economical in practical use.

Housekeepers are sometimes importuned to buy alum powders because they are "cheap." Yet some of the cheapest made powders are sold to consumers at the highest price.

Housekeepers should stop and think. Is it not better to buy the Royal and take no chances—the powder whose goodness and honesty are never questioned?

Is it economy to spoil your digestion by an alum-phosphate or other adulterated powder to save a few pennies?

Editors Off To Mexico.

At 9 o'clock Tuesday morning the fine special train of the California Press Association pulled out of the Southern Pacific depot at Third and Townsend streets, San Francisco, bound for the City of Mexico.

The train was composed of six splendid Pullman vestibule coaches drawn by one of the fastest locomotives in the service of the company. The special train consisted of a baggage car, a diner, and four standard sleepers, the last car being an observation car.

The excursion was arranged by Friend Wm. Richardson, president of the California Press Association, and promises to be the most important ever held in the history of the association. The party will arrive in the City of Mexico Saturday noon of this week. The next day will be Easter Sunday and the City of Mexico will be in her full glory. In the morning the great cathedral will be visited and the celebrated choir listened to. In the afternoon those who do as the Mexicans do and have been steeled to brutality by witnessing football games, will be able to compare the bull-fight with the strenuous American pastimes.

Six days will be spent in the City of Mexico and side trips will be made to Cuernavaca, Guadalupe, Guanajuato, Agua Calientes Chihuahua and a number of places of interest.

A total of 78 editors and their wives will comprise the editorial party. H. H. Granice is in the party and he expects to see General Frisbie and P. Pinelli while visiting the southern republic.

The Jack London lecture at the Woman's Club takes place next Friday afternoon at the club rooms.

Messrs. Westrup of Kenwood and Elmer Smith of Napa passed through town in an automobile Saturday.

Dr. G. D. Rich and James and Russell Morris returned to the city Monday after a sojourn on the Morris ranch.

A pretty bungalow is being erected for the Leo Dowdall's on Napa St. adjoining the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Reed.

Dr. N. G. W. Greenberg of San Francisco has been here for several days rusticiating on his country place south of town.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Naumai and their friend James Hull returned to their home in San Francisco Monday after a short visit here.

As yet no very big trout catches have been reported here by enthusiasts of the sport although the streams in the vicinity have been pretty well traversed.

A company represented by W. J. Boyd of San Rafael has purchased the Sausalito "News" from Judge Pryor. We wish the new editor great success but regret to lose our old pal, the Judge, from the journalistic field.

TO SEE THE SECRETARY

By Katherine M'Donald

Copyright, 1902, by T. C. McClure

The secretary sat in his office and fumed at the heat. He was born in a Foster log cabin and had attended a college of the northwest. He had gone to housekeeping in a little old mossy cottage for which he found it difficult at times to pay $3 a month rental. Yet at fifty he sat in that noble room whose long windows let in the breeze from the Potomac and framed a view incomparable for the mingling of natural and artificial beauty—sat and fumed at the heat. Williams, the messenger, entered. He was like most negroes, a sort of human barometer, and he never failed to suit his bearing to his master's humor. On this occasion he was obsequious, patient, but bored.

"That woman's still there, boss," he said.

"Didn't I tell you to get rid of her?"

"Yassah, I been tryin', but she's a stayer. Fust time I done like you say—I told her 'Mr. Sec'tary's engaged.' Tell him I'll wait until he is at liberty," she said. Next time I say, 'Beg yo' pardon, madam, for not tellin' yo' sooner, but Mr. Sec'tary he's out,' and she look up and say, 'Tell him I'll wait until he comes in.' Yassah, she say them identical words."

"What kind of looking woman is she, William—young and saucy?"

"No, she gettin' long 'twixt middle life, sah, and she mighty shabby. Still, I ain't say but she is got a quality eye, and she do hol' her head up mighty."

"Oh, well," said the secretary, with a sigh of resignation, "I'll see her and have it over."

The woman William ushered in was shabby. Not rusty, but they had never been either fine or tasteful. Your lady in temporary straits always has some bit of faded elegance to prove that she has seen better days. This woman was clearly the habitual patron of bargain counters when she bought at all.

Still, as William had said, she carried her head high—a noble head, with bold, clear lines and a mass of soft, well kept hair. The secretary arose, and they faced each other for one silent moment, she surveying him with a calm and friendly air, he, dazzled by the glimmering apparition of a younger and brighter presence which came between them.

"Can this be Laura Camden?" he asked. Her eyes filled at all his tone implied. For an instant her bearing changed—she lost her courage—then she threw up her head, with a defiant laugh.

"This is all that is left of her. And is this Tom Lloyd?" She swept the room with a calculating glance. It was as if she estimated the cost of the massive table and rich chairs. Instantly she turned her eyes back upon the secretary as if to measure him.

He flushed and rallied.

"Yes; this is Tom Lloyd, the fellow you wouldn't have, you know?"

"Well," she laughed impudently, then sank into the chair nearest her and ran a furtive, appreciative finger over the tapestry covering.

"You married Tucker Barton?" he asked.

"Oh, yes! And he turned out as every one predicted. I look the character, don't I—a drunkard's widow who has neither hope nor pride left?"

Her voice rang clear as the tremor of self pity, no note of shame or appeal.

"By Jove," the secretary said to himself, "this is Laura, and she's got the old spirit in her still!"

"Can I do anything for you?" he asked.

"Why, yes, if you will. Of course I didn't come merely to call—nor to recall. I want a place in one of the departments."

"What kind of a place?"

"I'm not particular," she said coolly. "You know very well I have neither talent nor training. You will have to treat me as if I were a political henchman and find me something which will require neither. I could keep accounts, but I think I should like to be in the library. There is a ladies' room, you know, as well as women attendants."

"But that is such a menial place."

She spread out her hands, brown and knotted and calloused. He drew back in a sort of shame and would have hidden his own had he dared. They were too white and soft and prosperous to lie in full sight on the table before her.

"The wages are small—not more than $60 or $75 a month."

"Not more?" She looked at him with glittering eyes. Her voice trembled now and seemed to express want and despair and resentment together. "Tom Lloyd! Sixty dollars a month—very month? That would be riches to me!"

He shrunk back in the chair. "Laura," he said, "why have you never come before? You live in Washington, and you might have come. Any time in the last ten years I've been here."

"Oh, yes, I know—Congressman Lloyd, Senator Lloyd, Secretary Lloyd. And I have, as you say, been here all the time. I've wanted to come, but she wouldn't let me."

impudent way and looked straight into his suffused eyes.

"I should not," she said. "If I had married you, Tom Lloyd, you wouldn't have been sitting here today."

"Why not?" he asked, with a sense of offense.

"Oh, because"—she leaned closer—"if you had married me you shouldn't have been a mere secretary at fifty. You would have been president!"

He looked at her and answered with quiet conviction:

"Yes; I should have been president with you to inspire me."

"I should never have done it by inspiration, Tom. I should have kept you at it, and I never would have let you think well of much longer as there was another man ahead of you." She arose, and, taking up her shabby umbrella and imitation leather bag as if to go, she returned to the subject of the appointment.

"Am I to have that place, then—chambermaid or scrubwoman or ladies' attendant, whichever you call it—at the library?" As he hesitated her features seemed to sharpen with anxiety. "Oh, Tom," she pleaded, "if you can get it for me, don't refuse! I have mother to take care of, and she is paralyzed, and there is so little I can do to earn a living!"

She swayed against the table; then, suddenly recovering her pride and courage again, she continued in a tone of calm politeness:

"I am sorry to have troubled you, Mr. Secretary. Of course there are many who apply to you for a position of old and forgotten friendships." She turned toward the door with a certain grace and dignity which brought an indulgent smile to the secretary's lips. He sprang up and stepped quickly in front of her.

"This is not a case of forgotten friendship, Laura. I have never forgotten, never wished to forget, but you can't have that place. It doesn't suit you. There is another opening, one in which you can be of much greater service. I do so want to be president. Won't you undertake to make one of me, Laura?"

She turned her back upon him and clutched the table with her work-marred hands.

"No, Tom; I won't. Don't ask me. If you were poor and all worn out and broken down by life or if we could go back to your youth!"

"Laura, I've always suspected that you regretted that old decision. I've thought a good many times that if I had asked again that next summer at camp meeting you wouldn't have given the same answer." He came around the table and compelled her to face him.

"Would you, Laura?"

"What does it matter now? I married Tucker and managed to conquer my love for you and now?"

"Your love for me! There! I have wanted that admission a good many times in my life, Laura, and I've got it. If you loved me once, you can again."

"Oh, well," she laughed, but her voice trembled. "I should like to see you president, Tom, after all!"

Rheumatism Makes Life Miserable

A happy home is the most valuable possession that is within reach of mankind, but you cannot enjoy its comforts if you are suffering from rheumatism. You throw aside business cares when you enter your home and you can be relieved from those rheumatic pains also by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm. One application will give you relief and its continued use for a short time will bring about a permanent cure. For sale by L. S. Simmons.

Don't Put Off

For to-morrow what you can do to-day. If you don't put off buying a bottle of Ballard's Snow Liniment when that pain comes you won't have any. Buy a bottle to-day. A positive cure for rheumatism, Burns, Cuts, Sprains, Contracted Muscles, T. S. Graham, Prairie Grove, Ark., writes: "I wish to thank you for the good results I received from Snow Liniment. It positively cured me of Rheumatism after others had failed."

Man is the best friend of the dog

Horses come next, but between the dog and all other farm animals, from the house cat to the cow and the beef steer, there seems to be a natural enmity. Dogs, however, are fond of sleep and goats—but as diet, not as living friends. Cows and sheep and goats should be kept as free from as possible with dogs as is possible, with the exception of the trained shepherd dog. A dog walking through a cow-pen that amounts to more than the cash value of the dog. Many dogs are worth considerably less than $100.—Farm and Ranch.

Good Judgment

is the essential characteristic of men and women. Invaluable to good business men and necessary to housewives. A woman shows good judgment when she buys White's Cream Vermifuge for her baby. The best worm medicine ever offered to mothers. Many indeed are the sensible mothers who write expressing their gratitude for the good health of their children, which they owe to the use of White's Cream Vermifuge.

Rheumatic Pains Relieved.

The quick relief from rheumatic pains afforded by Chamberlain's Pain Balm has surprised and delighted thousands of sufferers. It makes rest and sleep possible. A great many have been permanently cured of rheumatism by the use of this liniment. For sale by L. S. Simmons.

Why

have a torpid liver when Herbine, the only liver regulator, will help you? There is no reason why you should suffer from Dyspepsia, Constipation, Chills and Fever or any liver complaints, when Herbine will cure you. F. C. Waite, Westville, Fla., writes: "I was sick for a month with chills and fever and after taking two bottles of Herbine am well and healthy."

Genesis of the Piano.

About two hundred years ago there lived at the court of Prince Ferdinand de' Medici a Paduan harpsichord maker, by name Bartolomeo Christofori, a man of great inventive genius. After innumerable experiments he solved the problem, a long standing puzzle to the musical instrument makers of the period, of how to make a satisfactorily working "revel psalter," and by the method he invented of overcoming the difficulties inherent in the task he produced an instrument which was the undoubted ancestor of the pianoforte of today.

For the piano is, in essential, says a writer in The Universal Magazine, a dulcimer with a fitted keyboard; it is not simply a modification of the old harpsichord. The latter, it is true, did possess a keyboard, but the depression of its keys caused a "plucking" harplike action on the strings and not the striking of a hammer, with controlled rebound, the peculiar characteristic of the newer instrument.

From 1700, the date when Christofori made his four "keyed psalteries," the piano at first slowly, but afterward by leaps and bounds, went on increasing and increasing in popularity until now its manufacture has become a great industry, with an immense capital at its back and employing thousands of workmen in its various branches.

Grip Quickly Knocked Out.

"Some weeks ago during the severe winter weather both my wife and myself contracted severe colds which specially developed into the worst kind of a gripe with all its miserable symptoms," says Mr. J. S. Eggleston of Maple Landing, Iowa. "Knees and joints aching, muscles sore, head stopped up, eyes and nose running, with alternate spells of chills and fever. We began using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, aiding the same with a double dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and by its liberal use soon completely knocked out the gripe." Sold by L. S. Simmons.

Coffee.

About the year 1600 coffee began to be talked of in Christendom as a rare and precious medicine. In 1615 it was brought to Venice, and in 1621 Burton spoke of it in his "Anatomy of Melancholy" as a valuable article which he had heard of, but not seen. In 1652 Sir Nicholas Crispe, a Levant merchant, opened in London the first coffee house known in England, the beverage being prepared by a Greek girl brought over for the work. Other coffee houses in abundance were soon opened.

Just Because

your cough is only in the throat, and does not trouble you now, should you think it needs no attention. When it has not much of a start is the time to check it. The slightest cough easily leads to Pneumonia, Bronchitis and Consumption. A bottle of Ballard's Horehound Syrup will cure that cough. The price put out within reach of all. Sold by L. S. Simmons.

How to Open a New Book.

Hold the book with its back on a smooth or covered table; let the front board down, then the other, holding the leaves in one hand while you open a few leaves at the back, then a few at the front, and so on alternately opening back and front gently pressing open the sections till you reach the center of the volume. Do this two or three times, and you will obtain the best results. Open the volume violently or carelessly in any one place and you will likely break the back and cause a start in the leaves. Never force the back of the book.

Caught Cold While Hunting a Burglar.

Mr. Wm. Thos. Langran, provincial constable at Chatham, Ontario, says: "I caught a severe cold while hunting a burglar in the forest swamp last fall. Hearing of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, I tried it, and after using two small bottles, I was completely cured. This remedy is intended especially for coughs and colds. It will loosen and relieve a severe cold in less time than by any other treatment and is a favorite wherever its superior excellence has become known."

No Purchase, No Letters.

In an Irish village the local postmaster, in addition to the postal business, conducts a grocery and general drapery establishment. He is anxious to push business and seldom condescends to be gracious with inquirers for letters who forget to purchase any goods. Not long since a native as soon as the mail car arrived inquired, "Only letters for me, Hughie?"

No notice was taken until the inquiry was repeated four times, when Hughie, without looking up from his work, gruffly said, "No."

"Shure ye hev'n't looked yet."

"I sed no, and that's enuff. Ye shud get yer letters where ye buy yer goods!"

Lookout for that "rainy day!" It comes sooner or later for so many—we can't tell to-day who may want on the morrow.

Prepare now while you are able for any misfortune that may overtake you. Don't run any risks.

Here is something that will help you provide for the rainy day—an investment that carries with it unusual benefits and provides value from the minute you buy the stock.

Smith's Cash Store is well and favorably known all over the West. Its reputation is of the best and in volume of business it is making tremendous strides forward every year. Some five years ago the stock was selling for $5.00 a share. To-day the price is $10.00 a share. These figures demonstrate what a thriving institution this is. Highest Mail Order House on the Pacific Coast.

Each share of stock is guaranteed to earn 6 per cent a year. But the greatest benefit is derived by the stockholder from the discounts given to the holders of five or more shares of stock. You can buy anything to eat, use or wear at the same price the goods would cost your local dealers. We call them "Owner's Prices."

Suppose you buy goods that altogether cost $50 at our wholesale rate. If you are a stockholder you get a discount amounting to $2.50, and your bill is only $47.50. The saving you will make in one year in addition to the earnings will in all probability more than double the investment.

Year after year you will be effecting big savings. But should hard times knock at your door—and you must not be too sure that something of that sort will not happen—think what it will mean to you to be able to buy everything at cost prices. It might be the very thing that would help you to survive the period of distress.

We are increasing the amount of our capital stock. We are telling you about the stock because we think you ought to invest for your own sake. You couldn't buy stock in any other concern that would pay you so well.

It will not be long before the price of the stock is advanced. You know that means there are not many shares remaining in which you can take advantage of this great offer.

For your convenience we are printing a coupon which you ought to fill out—it does not obligate you in any way. Send it at once.
